Emergency First Response First Aid at Work Trainer Program

Becoming an EFR First Aid at Work Trainer means that you are now able to teach people how to save a life!

Everywhere we go there is always going to be a need for people trained in first aid to help us deal with small cuts and scrapes right through to major life threatening injuries, both in the home and at the workplace.

During the Emergency First Response First Aid at Work Trainer course, you will build on your skill as an Emergency Responder and focus on developing your instructional abilities to teach these skills to others.

Our Trainer program provides you with the additional training necessary to teach the Emergency First Response Primary Care (CPR), Secondary Care (First Aid) and Care for Children courses, including First Aid at Work Asia Pacific.

Our Emergency First Response First Aid at Work Trainer course covers specific goals and performance requirements for the Primary Care, Secondary Care and Care for Children courses, along with instruction on how to structure learning, the requirements of performance-based training, and your role as the trainer in the learning environment.

You will also learn how to motivate students, evaluate student knowledge, present course content effectively, become proficient in developing students' hands-on skills practice sessions, and are taught how to present an effective scenario-based learning experience.

Upon completion of our training program and through our RTO Head Office you will be able to offer the following packages.

These courses are aligned to the Nationally Recognized Training Unit of Competence

- HLTF301C: Apply First Aid
- HLTF201B: Provide Basic Emergency Life Support
- HLTCPR201B: Perform CPR

Upon completion of the program and certification and verification of all paperwork PADI's RTO will contact you to conduct an induction enabling you to begin training as a trainer with our RTO.

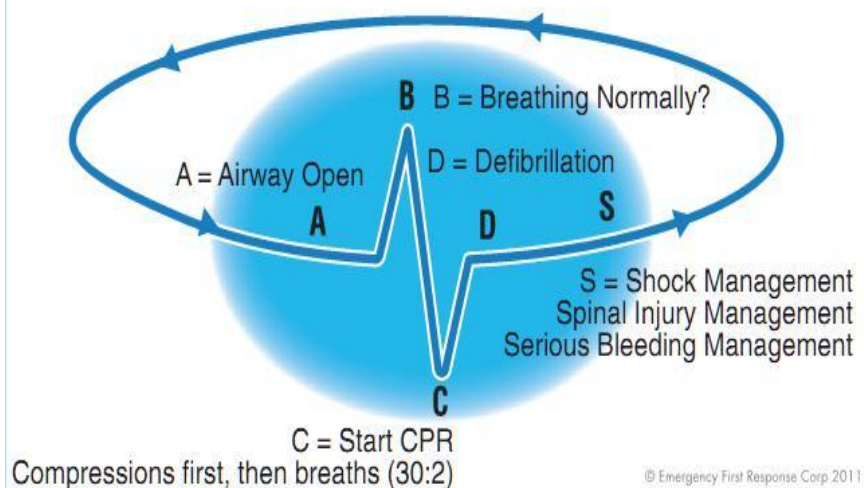

This will be required to be completed to enable you to issue Statements of Attainment certificates for the appropriate courses.
